

The University
Of Sheffield.

Department
Of Economics.

The role of “soft skills” in life outcomes of children and young people

Tuesday 14 June 2016

ICOSS Conference Room, University of Sheffield, 219 Portobello, Sheffield, S1 4DP

10.00-10.20	Arrival, registration and refreshments
10.20-10.30	Welcome by Jenny Roberts, InstEAD co-director, University of Sheffield
Session Chair: Philip Powell, University of Sheffield
10.30-11.30	Keynote: Leon Feinstein, Early Intervention Foundation 'We know social and emotional skills matter. What should be done about it?'
11.40-12.25	Michael Daly, University of Stirling 'Childhood self-control and economic and health outcomes across life.'
12.25-13.10	Richard Rowe, University of Sheffield 'Child and adolescent antisocial trajectories and adult outcomes: The role of onset, offset and persistence'
13.10-14.00	Lunch
Session Chair: Dan Gray, University of Sheffield
14.00-15.00	Keynote: Barbara Maughan, Kings College London 'Self-control and antisocial behaviour across the life course: a developmental perspective'
15.10-15.55	Pia Pinger, University of Bonn 'Take me on your shoulders! The effect of child mentoring on education outcomes.'
15.55-16.40	Praveetha Patalay, Institute of Education, UCL 'Emotional difficulties, behavioural problems and academic outcomes: developmentally linked or not?'
16.40-16.50	Round-off by Gurleen Popli, InstEAD Director of Research, University of Sheffield

This workshop is supported by the Wellcome Trust's Society and Ethics Small Grant

Inst
EAD. | Institute for Economic Analysis
of Decision-making.

Supported by wellcometrust